

ESCOWE

E-East
S-Side
CO-Commercial
WE-Women

SIXTH ANNUAL BANQUET ESCOWE BREAKFAST CLUB ☆ ☆ ☆

The Women's Committee of the East Side Commercial Club

EAST SIDE COMMERCIAL BLDG.
East Sixth and Alder : October 25, 1934
Six-thirty P. M. ☆ ☆ ☆

FINLEY TO TELL TALE OF MALHEUR

Oregonian
Naturalist to Describe Refuge in Tour of East
Dec. 30, 1934

The story of the restoration of Malheur lake by the federal government at a cost of nearly $1,000,000 will be told throughout the east by William L. Finley, Portland, nationally famous author and naturalist, during his 24th annual lecture tour. He will leave January 5.

For 30 years Mr. Finley has camped, packed and cruised through Oregon in search of new and interesting natives of this region, and throughout that period he has preached the need of making Malheur lake, in southeastern Oregon, the greatest waterfowl refuge in the nation.

DREAM COMES TRUE

His dream has just about come true. The government is now going through the tedious process of purchasing 60,000 acres of land in the Blitzen river valley, on the west slope of the Steens mountains, and about the fringe of the lake bed, to set aside for all time breeding grounds and a resting area for waterfowl.

During his eastern trip, Mr. Finley will show motion picture films depicting the nearly dry bed of the lake and its restoration by diversion of the waters of Blitzen river into the lake bed, flooding 45,000 acres.

OTHER GAME AIDED

Not only will this refuge benefit migratory waterfowl, but it will also prove a permanent refuge and breeding ground for deer, antelope, sage grouse and other natives of eastern Oregon, Mr. Finley will tell his hearers.

Mr. Finley will also display his new series of motion reels, entitled "Where Rolls the Oregon," showing scenic views throughout the state, angling, packing, motoring and outdoor sports.

He is vice-president of the American Game association, which will meet at New York January 21 to 23, and he will show his pictures at the association's closing banquet. He will give addresses at Boston, Chicago, St. Louis, Detroit, Pittsburgh and many smaller cities.

IN EARLIER DAYS

From The Journal's Files
12-23-34

December 23, 1924—10 Years Ago

Frigid temperatures rule over Oregon. At Portland a minimum of 18 degrees was recorded. Eugene, with a record of 1 degree below zero, was the coldest spot west of the Cascade mountains. Prineville reported 31 below zero. At Madras it was 32 below. A break is not in sight.

December 23, 1919—15 Years Ago

Salem—Governor Olcott, as chairman of the state game and fish commission, in a letter to members of the commission recommends that the action deposing W. L. Finley be rescinded and that Finley be reinstated as state biologist and given a free hand in the management of the educational and biological department of the commission.

IN EARLIER DAYS

From The Journal's Files
12-15-34

December 18, 1924—10 Years Ago

Washington—President Coolidge today sent to the senate for confirmation the nomination of Brigadier General Charles H. Martin to be major general.

December 18, 1919—15 Years Ago

Public indignation continued today because of the summary dismissal of W. L. Finley, state biologist, by the fish and game commission. The action was taken at a secret meeting in the absence of Governor Olcott. The commission will probably reconsider its action.

MENU

HEARTS OF CELERY

OLIVES

MOCK TURKEY WITH DRESSING

MASHED POTATOES

PEAS AU BEURRE

FRUIT SALAD

PUMPKIN PIE

DEMI TASSE

PROGRAM

Introduction of Officers

Announcements

Ladies' Venetian Sextette

(a) Pale Moon Logan

(b) Sarita Burton

Mrs. Catherine Covach Frederick
Director and Accompanist

Whistling Solo Ethel James

Ventriloquist Act Norman Norton

Rainbow Girls Marimba Quartette

(a) El Capitan Marche

(b) Toymaker's Dream

(c) The Big Bad Wolf is Dead

Motion Picture Travelogue Series . Wm. L. Finley

Vocal Solo Viola Green

"Only a Rose" from "The Vagabond King"
Harry Green, accompanist

Door Prizes

FINLEY TO TELL TALE OF MALHEUR

Oregonian

Naturalist to Describe Refuge in Tour of East

Dec. 30, 1934

The story of the restoration of Malheur lake by the federal government at a cost of nearly $1,000,000 will be told throughout the east by William L. Finley, Portland, nationally famous author and naturalist, during his 24th annual lecture tour. He will leave January 5.

For 30 years Mr. Finley has camped, packed and cruised through Oregon in search of new and interesting natives of this region, and throughout that period he has preached the need of making Malheur lake, in southeastern Oregon, the greatest waterfowl refuge in the nation.

DREAM COMES TRUE

His dream has just about come true. The government is now going through the tedious process of purchasing 60,000 acres of land in the Blitzen river valley, on the west slope of the Steens mountains, and about the fringe of the lake bed, to set aside for all time breeding grounds and a resting area for waterfowl.

During his eastern trip, Mr. Finley will show motion picture films depicting the nearly dry bed of the lake and its restoration by diversion of the waters of Blitzen river into the lake bed, flooding 45,000 acres.

OTHER GAME AIDED

Not only will this refuge benefit migratory waterfowl, but it will also prove a permanent refuge and breeding ground for deer, antelope, sage grouse and other natives of eastern Oregon, Mr. Finley will tell his hearers.

Mr. Finley will also display his new series of motion reels, entitled "Where Rolls the Oregon," showing scenic views throughout the state, angling, packing, motoring and outdoor sports.

He is vice-president of the American Game association, which will meet at New York January 21 to 23, and he will show his pictures at the association's closing banquet. He will give addresses at Boston, Chicago, St. Louis, Detroit, Pittsburgh and many smaller cities.

IN EARLIER DAYS

From The Journal's Files

Journal
12-23-34
December 23, 1924—10 Years Ago

Frigid temperatures rule over Oregon. At Portland a minimum of 18 degrees was recorded. Eugene, with a record of 1 degree below zero, was the coldest spot west of the Cascade mountains. Prineville reported 31 below zero. At Madras it was 32 below. A break is not in sight.

* * *

December 23, 1919—15 Years Ago

Salem—Governor Olcott, as chairman of the state game and fish commission, in a letter to members of the commission recommends that the action deposing W. L. Finley be rescinded and that Finley be reinstated as state biologist and given a free hand in the management of the educational and biological department of the commission.

* * *

IN EARLIER DAYS

From The Journal's Files

Journal
12-15-34
December 18, 1924—10 Years Ago

Washington—President Coolidge today sent to the senate for confirmation the nomination of Brigadier General Charles H. Martin to be major general.

* * *

December 18, 1919—15 Years Ago

Public indignation continued today because of the summary dismissal of W. L. Finley, state biologist, by the fish and game commission. The action was taken at a secret meeting in the absence of Governor Olcott. The commission will probably reconsider its action.

* * *